

*Brunswick Art Works presents
FREE Monthly Poetry Readings
At Insights Coffee & More, 1661 Pearl Rd, Brunswick
7:00 – 9:00 PM
Open Mic follows featured readings. Check these out!*

We thank our sponsors: Buehler's, Cici's Pizza, BP Oil, I-71 Marathon, Steak 'n Shake, Brunswick Sunoco, Malley's and Laser Wash of Brunswick,

Rita M. Grabowski received her M.A. in creative writing from Cleveland State University in 1996.

My Life as a Nerve, her first collection of poems, was published by Pudding House. She is the Manager of the Cleveland State University Poetry Center and is currently enrolled in the Northeast Ohio MFA program.

Rita Grabowski –
October 11

Mark Kuhar –
November 8

is a poet, writer, editor, artist & publisher from Medina. His work has appeared in whiskey island, centerlight, & northern ohio live. his work has appeared in the anthologies "an eye for an eye makes the whole world blind: poets on 9/11," "the long march of cleveland," and "anthologese the next." He has also been published by Sacramento-based 24th St. Irregular Press as part of the "poems-for-all" series. One of his chapbooks, "laughing in the ruins of chippewa lake park," was published by his own company, deep cleveland press.

Mark has read his work on NPR's local affiliate, is the founder of the deep cleveland poetry hour, the proprietor of deep cleveland llc, www.deepcleveland.com (which includes deep cleveland press, a small-press publishing company) & editor of ohio writer magazine. He is a graduate of Ohio University with a degree in English/Creative Writing. Mark lives with his wife, three kids and a bi-polar cock-a-poo.

Don Iannone -
December 13

Don Iannone lives in Mayfield Village, Ohio. He runs a strategic planning and organization development consulting company. During his business career, he has published nearly 50 articles and book chapters on economic development, business and environmental issues. He co-authored Evaluating Business Incentives, an economic development book, and is writing a book on leadership. His childhood dream was to be a poet

While Don has written poetry throughout his life, he has only seriously dedicated himself to the craft in the past four years. He is the author of two published poetry books. Stilling the Waters and Walks in Life's Sacred Garden, released in 2005 & 2007, respectively. A number of his poems also have been published in various online poetry journals. His third book of poetry is expected in early spring 2008. Don's poetry blog, Poetic Alchemist, can be found at: <http://poeticalchemist.wordpress.com>.

In 2008, Poetry Readings Continue the 2nd Thursday of Every Month

*Brunswick Art Works presents
FREE Monthly Poetry Readings
At Insights Coffee & More, 1661 Pearl Rd, Brunswick
7:00 – 9:00 PM
Open Mic follows featured readings. Check these out!*

We thank our sponsors: Buehler's, Cici's Pizza, BP Oil, I-71 Marathon,

Steak 'n Shake, Brunswick Sunoco, Malley's and Laser Wash of Brunswick,

Rita M. Grabowski received her M.A. in creative writing from Cleveland State University in 1996.

My Life as a Nerve, her first collection of poems, was published by Pudding House. She is the Manager of the Cleveland State University Poetry Center and is currently enrolled in the Northeast Ohio MFA program.

Rita Grabowski –
October 11

Mark Kuhar –
November 8

is a poet, writer, editor, artist & publisher from Medina. His work has appeared in whiskey island, centerlight, & northern ohio live. his work has appeared in the anthologies "an eye for an eye makes the whole world blind: poets on 9/11," "the long march of cleveland," and "anthologese the next." He has also been published by Sacramento-based 24th St. Irregular Press as part of the "poems-for-all" series. One of his chapbooks, "laughing in the ruins of chippewa lake park," was published by his own company, deep cleveland press.

Mark has read his work on NPR's local affiliate, is the founder of the deep cleveland poetry hour, the proprietor of deep cleveland llc, www.deepcleveland.com (which includes deep cleveland press, a small-press publishing company) & editor of ohio writer magazine. He is a graduate of Ohio University with a degree in English/Creative Writing. Mark lives with his wife, three kids and a bi-polar cock-a-poo.

Don Iannone -
December 13

Don Iannone lives in Mayfield Village, Ohio. He runs a strategic planning and organization development consulting company. During his business career, he has published nearly 50 articles and book chapters on economic development, business and environmental issues. He co-authored Evaluating Business Incentives, an economic development book, and is writing a book on leadership. His childhood dream was to be a poet

While Don has written poetry throughout his life, he has only seriously dedicated himself to the craft in the past four years. He is the author of two published poetry books. Stilling the Waters and Walks in Life's Sacred Garden, released in 2005 & 2007, respectively. A number of his poems also have been published in various online poetry journals. His third book of poetry is expected in early spring 2008. Don's poetry blog, Poetic Alchemist, can be found at: <http://poeticalchemist.wordpress.com>.

In 2008, Poetry Readings Continue the 2nd Thursday of Every Month

*Brunswick Art Works presents
 FREE Monthly Poetry Readings
 At Insights Coffee & More, 1661 Pearl Rd, Brunswick
 7:00 – 9:00 PM
 Open Mic follows featured readings. Check these out!*

We thank our sponsors: Buehler's, Cici's Pizza, BP Oil, I-71 Marathon, Steak 'n Shake, Brunswick Sunoco, Malley's and Laser Wash of Brunswick,

Rita M. Grabowski received her M.A. in creative writing from Cleveland State University in 1996.

My Life as a Nerve, her first collection of poems, was published by Pudding House. She is the Manager of the Cleveland State University Poetry Center and is currently enrolled in the Northeast Ohio MFA program.

Rita Grabowski –
October 11

Mark Kuhar –
November 8

is a poet, writer, editor, artist & publisher from Medina. His work has appeared in whiskey island, centerlight, & northern ohio live. his work has appeared in the anthologies "an eye for an eye makes the whole world blind: poets on 9/11," "the long march of cleveland," and "anthologese the next." He has also been published by Sacramento-based 24th St. Irregular Press as part of the "poems-for-all" series. One of his chapbooks, "laughing in the ruins of chippewa lake park," was published by his own company, deep cleveland press.

Mark has read his work on NPR's local affiliate, is the founder of the deep cleveland poetry hour, the proprietor of deep cleveland llc, www.deepcleveland.com (which includes deep cleveland press, a small-press publishing company) & editor of ohio writer magazine. He is a graduate of Ohio University with a degree in English/Creative Writing. Mark lives with his wife, three kids and a bi-polar cock-a-poo.

Don Iannone -
December 13

Don Iannone lives in Mayfield Village, Ohio. He runs a strategic planning and organization development consulting company. During his business career, he has published nearly 50 articles and book chapters on economic development, business and environmental issues. He co-authored Evaluating Business Incentives, an economic development book, and is writing a book on leadership. His childhood dream was to be a poet

While Don has written poetry throughout his life, he has only seriously dedicated himself to the craft in the past four years. He is the author of two published poetry books. Stilling the Waters and Walks in Life's Sacred Garden, released in 2005 & 2007, respectively. A number of his poems also have been published in various online poetry journals. His third book of poetry is expected in early spring 2008. Don's poetry blog, Poetic Alchemist, can be found at: <http://poeticalchemist.wordpress.com>.

In 2008, Poetry Readings Continue the 2nd Thursday of Every Month

